Yar and Ajak Achiek Mading were abducted from Liliir village in Bor County by gunmen from the Murle tribe of Pibor County on October 3, 2007. The government of Jonglei State needs to be persuaded to negotiate for the safe and voluntary release of these girls and any other children held by the Murle.

Your Excellency, President Salva Kiir:

I have learned of the abduction of two very young girls, Yar and Ajak Achiek Mading, from Liliir village in Jonglei state on October 3. We are very concerned about the serious problem of child abduction in Jonglei. Taking action to save these children will demonstrate to the world that the new nation of South Sudan protects its most vulnerable citizens and so deserves the world's support.

I respectfully urge you and Jonglei officials, specifically Brig. Gen. Philip Thon Leek, to promptly use your influence to negotiate with the Murle in Pibor for the peaceful and voluntary release of Yar and Ajak and any other abducted children.

Sincerely,
